The package includes four of the new blends, along with preparation suggestions and unique recipes so that even the novice chef can serve up some of the most flavorful, innovative pairings around.

Espresso Rub is salty, sweet, a tad hot, and bitter (from the coffee). The flavors in this blend are simple and speak for themselves. There are only 7 ingredients in the mixture, and most can be inferred from the flavor description. While this blend works well on both chicken and steak, it is especially remarkable with duck.

Chipotle BBQ is a classic Barbeque profile: salty, sweet, and bitter, with an added smoky element. This rub is not as sweet as some barbeque rubs. Instead, its sweetness comes from the various chilies in the recipe. Other ingredients include cumin, garlic, black pepper, thyme, celery seed, and ginger. The Chipotle BBQ spice pairs best with chicken.

Quebec Steak seasoning has a kick of garlic, pepper, salt, and a little heat. It goes best with steak and can be used as a marinade for flank steak or fajitas, and doubles as a burger seasoning.

Finally, Herbs De Provence is herbaceous and floral. The savory mix of tarragon, rosemary, savory, fennel, lavender, basil is great for grilling any white oily fish like Mediterranean sea bass (loup de mer) or halibut.
